Sofia: Hi, Michiko. I'm studying for a math test! 😞 It's really hot and I want to be outside!

Michiko: Poor you! Good luck! 🙏 My friend is calling me. See you later!

10:00 a.m. (and back online!)

We ❤️ Harajuku – the fashion district

I'm sitting in a café with my best friend, Akiko. We're mixing old-fashioned clothes with our own clothes to create a unique style today. Look! We have an umbrella for the sun, and we're wearing summer dresses and sunglasses. I'm wearing big black boots, but Akiko isn't wearing the same boots. She's wearing zori (they're Japanese sandals).

We're also people-watching from the café! There are a lot of different looks.

There's a boy outside the café. He's wearing a black and white striped T-shirt, a red shirt, tight jeans, a green jacket, and sneakers. What a cool retro look! What do you think?

Comments:

Kyle from London: I love it!

I'm not having ramen today. I'm having sushi and sashimi. It's definitely a sashimi kind of day. Delicious! Are you having ramen for lunch?

Comments:

Lily: No, I'm not. I'm making pizza for ten friends! 🍕

Special Days

Weddings are a wonderful time for families and friends to celebrate together and to wear special clothes. This week, Amrit is talking about his cousin’s Hindu wedding in India and some of their traditions.

Q: What are Hindu weddings like?

A: They’re incredible! There’s a lot of amazing food, music and dancing. They’re always very colorful events because everyone wears beautiful clothes. They last for three days.

Q: What does the bride wear?

A: The bride usually wears a lehenga (a long skirt with a top) and a long scarf. Red is very popular at Hindu weddings. It’s a powerful color because in India it symbolizes love and new life. In this photo, my cousin Mishal is wearing a red and gold lehenga. She’s also wearing special wedding accessories: a gold necklace, earrings, rings on her fingers and toes, and lots of red and gold bracelets.

Q: What does the groom wear?

A: The groom usually wears a sherwani (a long jacket with gold designs on it), a pair of pants and special wedding shoes. My cousin's new husband, Ranjit, is also wearing a red turban.

Q: Are there any other special wedding traditions?

A: There are lots, but my favorite is joota chupai – a member of the bride's family steals the groom's wedding shoes and hides them. It's so much fun! In this photo, my aunt Jaz is holding Ranjit's shoes and everyone is laughing.
